Morton's Wine Flight

Destination: Australia & New Zealand

Dear Steve and Sharon,

On behalf of the team it is our sincere pleasure to present your travel documents for our International Morton's Wine Flight to Australia and New Zealand.

There's no denying it - Australian and New Zealand wines are popular. They exported more than $3 billion worth of wine to the world. As you will soon discover on our rounds their winemakers have been blending 'old world' specialties with 'new world' techniques to produce exceptional flavorful wine.

We kick things off with a private dinner on the evening of September 6th in Melbourne before starting our journey to the Yarra Valley on the morning of the 7th September. We have chosen the Langham Hotel overlooking the banks of the Yarra River, for our accommodations in Melbourne. Airport to hotel transfers have been arranged to coincide with your respective arrival times.

Enjoy Melbourne at your leisure in and around the city. We will meet in the lobby of the Hotel at 530pm to enjoy our dinner at Bellota with host Kate McIntyre and wines from Moorooduc Estate in the Mornington Peninsula. Your itinerary detailing each day's winery and other side excursions will be included in your travel pack.

What to Pack? It really is casual all the way in Australia and New Zealand. City restaurants we suggest smart casual. Wineries in the valleys are akin to "Napa casual" attire. September is cooler so for the ladies don't forget to pack sweaters or a shawl to keep the chill at bay. For men a light jacket, and/or sweater will be a good addition. The weather in Australia will be in the mid 60's range dropping to the upper 40's in the evenings, so again bring a wrap, sweater or coat for the evenings.

We have planned a fairly intensive wine tour (one or two a day) peppered with optional side excursions and free time. You will taste between 90-120 wines on the trip so spitting when tasting is not frowned upon. Drink a lot of water and pace yourself.

I, Tammy and the travel team look forward to creating an enjoyable experience for you both. My cell phone is 561-703-7307 if you need to reach me for anything.

Sincerely,

Tylor Field, III

About your Australia & New Zealand Wine Flight

AUSTRALIA

While there are more than sixty distinct wine regions around Australia there are six key areas that continuously produce the best of the best. We are visiting three of these. Over the 9 full days we plan to experience wines from 17 wineries either on property or at restaurants convenient to our proximity to the wineries. Our three main stops will include:

Yarra Valley

The Yarra Valley is Victoria's oldest wine growing area with the first vines being planted in 1837. Internationally recognized as one of the world's best wine producing regions, the Yarra Valley is a thriving tourist hub and home to more than forty cellar doors. The diverse soils and cool climate means that a wide variety of grapes across many different styles can thrive here.

While the region produces many standout wines, the Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and sparkling wine produced here provides a benchmark for Australia and the rest of the world.

McLaren Vale

Just 35km south of Adelaide, McLaren Vale is nestled between the ocean and the Sellicks Hill Range. Another one of Australia's exceptional maritime regions, McLaren Vale's most outstanding export is Shiraz. Full of explosive berry, spice and licorice flavors McLaren Vale Shiraz is densely colored, full bodied and a firm favorite of many wine lovers.

Other varietals that do extremely well in McLaren Vale are Cabernet Sauvignon, Grenache, Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc.

Barossa Valley

Arguably Australia's most famous wine region, the Barossa is home to more than 150 wineries and 755 grape growers. History and tradition play an integral role in the winemaking industry here which has been nurtured and developed for the last century and a half.

The most famous of all Barossa Valley wines is Shiraz. Full-bodied, fruity and rich, Barossa Valley Shiraz has soft tannins which make it a favorite among wine lovers. The Barossa also produces stunning examples of Riesling, Semillon and Cabernet Sauvignon.

NEW ZEALAND

Over the three full days we will be covering Auckland on North Island and Marlborough on South Island experiencing wines from 5 wineries either on property or at restaurants convenient to where we are staying.

New Zealand red wines are typically made from a blend of varietals (Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and much less often Cabernet Franc, Petit Verdot and Malbec), or Pinot noir.

New Zealand's rise on the international wine scene was predicated on a single grape variety from a single region: Sauvignon Blanc from Marlborough. The first plantings are scarcely 30 years old, but they have defined an entire country's wine image. That list is now expanded to include stalwarts like Chardonnay, Gewürztraminer, Pinot Gris and Riesling.

Overview of Hotel, Wineries, Hosted Wines and Excursions by City/Region and Dates;

Experiencing 17 winery visits, 25 total lunches and dinners and daily breakfast, as you journey through some of Australia and New Zealand's finest wine growing regions, and certainly the most beautiful. We include winery excursions as well as optional wildlife and cultural excursions to round off an immersive experience we trust you will enjoy and return home with fond memories.

Dress wear

It really is casual all the way in Australia and New Zealand. We are planning a welcome dinner at a private venue in Melbourne and farewell dinner at a restaurant in Sydney where smart casual would be suggested. Most lunches and dinners planned are at wineries with a handful at restaurants in the wine country so casual clothing with comfortable shoes is recommended. As a general rule, pack lighter clothing for the day and some warm layered clothing for the cool evenings. Pack a light raincoat and travel umbrella especially for Melbourne it tends to rain there often. Laundry service is available at every hotel stop along the way.

Introduction to Australia

In terms of land area, Australia is approximated to be about 7,692,024 sq.km and is the 6th largest nation in the world after Brazil, Canada, China, The USA and Russia. However, population wise, the country has a relatively smaller population than most of these nations. The interesting thing about Australia is that it is the only nation that governs an entire continent and a couple of outlying islands.

Australia is a nation of many contrasts. For instance, mainland Australia is not only the largest island but it also is the smallest and flattest continent on the planet. It lies between 10 degrees and 39 degrees south latitude, and its highest point is Mount Kosciuszko, which is only about 2,220 meters high. The continent is the driest occupied landmass on the earth. The mainland's interior experiences some of the driest weather and has the lowest rainfall measurements with about half of its land being arid or semi-arid.

However, the fertile parts of the nation are effectively utilized and well-watered; making Australia food source for the world despite the dry weather. Cattle and sheep are grazed in the drier parts of the country; however, care needs to be taken as some of the grazing lands became deserts when cycles in Australia turned into drought. Apart from the great Outback, other great places to explore when in Australia is its coasts. The nation has been forced to become more of a coastal country because of the harsh interior conditions. The interesting thing is that most of the nation's population lives within 20 kilometers of the ocean. While the hot and arid conditions are quite harsh for those inland, they are quite welcome to those along the coastal region

Residents and citizens of Australia are known as Australians, and there were about 23,130, 900 people living in the nation as of 2013. Now, the interesting thing about the nation, however, is that about one out of every four Australian was born in another country, or either one or both of their parents was born overseas. Only 2% of the population is made up by indigenous citizens and these are the Torres Strait Islanders and the Aboriginals. Australia's capital is Canberra. Sydney is the largest city in the country.

Economy wise, Australia is amongst the wealthiest nations in the world despite its sharp contrasts. It uses the Australian Dollar, denoted as AUS and its economy is the 12th largest in the world. In 2014, the nation had the 5th highest per capita income in the world. It also has the 2nd highest human development indexes in the world and ranks highly in different aspects of health, economic freedom, life, and the protection of political rights and civil liberties.

Introduction to New Zealand

New Zealand is an island country located in the southwestern Pacific Ocean comprising two main landmasses (the North Island and the South Island) and numerous smaller islands. The geography of New Zealand is highly varied, from snowcapped mountains to lowland plains. The total area of New Zealand is 268,680 km² (+ / - the size of Italy).

It is also known as "the land of the long white cloud" or "Aotearoa" in Maori.

The government system is a parliamentary democracy and a Commonwealth realm; the chief of state is the queen of the United Kingdom, and the head of government is the prime minister. New Zealand has a free market economy in which the prices of goods and services are determined in a free price system

The North Island contains active volcanoes and has significant geothermal activity. Its highest point, Mount Ruapehu (2,797 m), is also an active volcano. This part of the country is heavily influenced by Maori culture. The island offers diverse landscapes from white or black sand beaches in the north to magnificent snow-capped mountains in the center of the island.

South Island is the largest, with the Southern Alps almost running its entire length. The highest point of the Alps is Mount Cook at 3,754 meters

Maori art, traditional songs and dances became popular again in the late 20th century, particularly the "Kapa Haka" (singing and dancing), woodcuts and weaving. Maori tattoos (ta moko) are a tradition still in existence today and are admired around the world because of their appearance and symbolic significance.

Sports are very important in New Zealand. The national sport is rugby thanks to the famous "All Blacks" who represent the pride of the country. The "Haka", originally a traditional Maori war dance, is performed with great conviction by the players before each All Blacks game.

Rugby is not the only sport played here, other popular sports are cricket, football, rugby league, netball, skiing, snowboarding, water sports, ... and of course bungee jumping, which has given New Zealand a name for extreme sports.

MITOLO

The first wine we produced, the 2000 G.A.M. Shiraz was named after my children Gemma, Alex and Marco. Since then we have added another ten wines to the range each with its own distinct personality and story.

My Italian heritage runs strongly through the range: we use the Italian varietals Vermentino and Sangiovese; and we use the Italian appassimento technique of drying fruit to make our Jester Cabernet and Serpico wine. But perhaps most importantly of all, our wines are made to suit the Italian foods of my homeland.

We are a family owned winery The Tait name has been involved in the wine industry for more than 100 years, and it was not until his sons grew older that his dream came to reality.

His vision for TAIT was to be a traditional winery using all the old winemaking methods to produce hand crafted wines. The family acknowledges their father's vision by dedicating the estate grown Cabernet Sauvignon in his honor. This wine reflects all of Giovanni's qualities of age, depth of character and full of life.

LOVEBLOCK

Back in 2004, this was a wild piece of land, untamed and hidden from the world. Kim and Erica had both been working in the wine industry for most of their lives and wondered what they could do with this wildness: how would the unique terroir translate to flavours in wine?

"Here in New Zealand land is precious; the economy largely depends on agriculture. As grape growers and wine farmers, we are custodians of this land. We must take care of it, restore soil balance and fertility without commercial fertilisers and chemical protection. We have learnt that the rhythm of the land is immovable, that we need to submit to it and respect it to get the best from it". Erica
